We have the space, let us live the skylife

Onyx Skyview is the second building in our highly successful Onyx series and represents the nexus of contemporary architecture and modern urban living. Building on over 30 years of development experience, my team and I have sought to combine our understanding of urban development with the kind of life-design today's professionals and families seek. We sought with Onyx Skyview to create not only a work/life balance that surpasses expectations; but have also managed to design floorplans that deliver a spacious environment as yet unseen at this price point. We hope you enjoy reviewing the development and are looking forward to discussing your needs.

Eng. Mohamed AbdulGhaffar AlKooheji

CEO. Kooheji Development

With three decades of experience developing in Bahrain, we know its market and what people need. This experience guided our development approach for Onyx Skyview. Our team first reviewed our market knowledge and sentiment to best understand the needs of today's professionals and young families. Understanding the pressures of living in the built environment, with ever-increasing traffic, it became clear to us that a gap existed that could be filled with a new, connected and singular environment, one ideally suited to the nation we call home.

Island lifestyle, Arabian charm

Enjoy 360° waterfront views of Bahrain, Arabia's only island nation

Bahrain is considered by many the pearl of the Arabian Gulf. The only Island nation in the Arabian family, the culture here is as unique as the people who create it. It is no surprise to those who call the land of two seas home, that Bahrain is one of the most popular destinations in the Arabian Gulf. The island is rich in history and open to cultures from across the region and beyond.

Bahrain is a small archipelago of islands, famed for its pearls and home to 2 UNESCO heritage sites. The island is steeped in history be it the Sumerian Dilmun era, the Grecian Tylos, Portuguese or British colonial past, all made possible thanks to the welcoming nature of the Bahraini people. This charming, friendly atmosphere is what has made this small but influential island one of the world's most popular expat postings.

Arguably the first post-oil economy in the Gulf, Bahrain has since invested heavily in its banking and FinTech sectors as well as sports and tourism. Visitors enjoy world-class motorsports at the Sakhir Stadium, entertainment at the Dana Amphitheatre and National Theatre, dining in the famous Adliya restaurant district, shopping at one of the many high-end malls or staying in one of a multitude of 5 star hotels.

The future of the Nation is Bahrain Bay

Set in the picturesque heart of Manama’s north western coast, overlooking the Arabian Gulf, stands Bahrain Bay. The 1.45mil sqm island is proving to be the focus for the capital’s development. Connected walk-ways and water-ways thread the urban island together on a human scale, while the fast inter-island highway allows for superfast connections to all the main urban centres.

The island is set to become a focal point of Bahrain’s food and leisure sector and is already playing host to the Bahrain Food Festival as well as an assortment of touristic cafés, restaurants and retail locations. The district is also home to The Avenues Mall, The Park and The Wharf, as well as Hotels like the Four Seasons and the Wyndham. The future of Bahrain is happening in Bahrain Bay.
